Markus Stockhausen at ImproWinter08 at Palucca-Schule 6 – 8 February 2008

In February 2008 ImproWinter, an initiative of Tanzplan Dresden, is taking place for the second time on the campus of Dresdens College of Dance. This weeklong workshop will be dedicated to the different facets of improvisation – not just in dance, but also in music. And so we are delighted to welcome Markus Stockhausen for the second time as one of the seven international teachers. If you register before December 31st 2007 you may claim the early bird rate.

The courses are aimed at professional dancers, musicians, actors, filmmakers, visual artists, and representatives of other artistic genres and the new media. Besides ballet and contemporary dance training ImproWinter again offers interdisciplinary courses of which some are especially dedicated to music. Markus Stockhausen will teach two courses: “music & more” is geared towards musicians and dancers as well as artists from other fields who wish to combine movement and music in their work. “Music & intuition” is tailored to professional musicians who want to explore the idea of intuition throughout the course. Both courses will focus on active practicing.

A varied evening programme and a public presentation at the end of the workshop offer further opportunities for creative exchange between participants, dance teachers and guests. Furthermore, you may book Shiatsu-sessions with Ori Flomin who runs a Shiatsu practice in New York.

The fee for the three day courses are EUR 65 respectively EUR 95. If you book before December 31st 2007 you may claim the early bird rate. You can register online at www.tanzplan-dresden.de. Flyers with details of the programme can be ordered from Tanzplan Dresden.
